

Call for Show&Tell for Interspeech 2024

Important Dates

Proposals of Show&Tell due: 22nd April 2024

Notification of Acceptance/Rejection: 14th May 2024

Final paper and final video: 11th June 2024

Submissions for Show&Tell are invited for Interspeech 2024 <https://interspeech2024.org/>.

Interspeech is the world's largest and most comprehensive conference on the science and technology of spoken language processing. An important addition to the regular and special sessions are the Show&Tell demonstrations, where participants are given the opportunity to present engaging and interactive demonstrations to conference attendees. Contributions must highlight scientific or technological innovations of a concept relevant to Interspeech and may relate to a regular paper. Demonstrations should be based on innovations and fundamental research in the areas of speech communication, speech production, perception, acquisition, or speech and language technologies. The theme of Interspeech 2024 is Speech and Beyond. Next to the traditional topics of Interspeech, this theme widens the scope to the following non exhaustive list of topics: speech and health, animal voice recognition and understanding, speech for memory and heritage, voice communication across ages, and human-machine interaction, including gaming, virtual and augmented reality, and robot audition.

Proposals, as well as any questions, should be submitted to the Show&Tell Chairs: Eli Tzirkel (GM, Israel) and Ofer Schwartz (CEVA, Israel) at show-tell@interspeech2024.org.
